First aid kits offered by Respiratory Care students – Our award-winning Respiratory Care student organization is selling a variety of first-aid kits to raise funds for student activities this year. In previous years, the UAMS student teams have won awards at the annual Sputum Bowl (gross name, huh?) where they compete in a college-bowl type contest to demonstrate their superior knowledge of respiratory care science and clinical practice. And they have trophies to prove their acumen.

The first-aid kits come in a variety of sizes and prices to fit anybody's needs and budget. There's even a pink one to mark Breast Cancer Awareness Month in October. Prices begin at $12 – a small price to pay for convenience and assurance that you're prepared for an emergency. The student organization receives 50% of the sales, so you're doing good while you take care of yourself and your family!

Physician Assistant 5K Run October 3 – The Physician Assistant student organization hosts their second annual PA 5K run on October 3, during National Physician Assistant Week. The students are raising money for Heroes Against Hunger and will benefit the Arkansas Rice Depot Food for Kids program. The run also informs the public about the physician assistant profession.
