Professional Contributions:

a. Development of a new or recognized techniques:

Developed and published the "Front Damping Technique" for evaluating transducer quality: DuBose TJ; A Simple Test of Excessive B Scanner Transducer Ring; Medical Ultrasound; 7:169-172, 1983, November.

Developed and published the first sonographic measurement of the 3D fetal cranial volume: DuBose TJ; Fetal Biometry: Vertical Calvarial Diameter and Calvarial Volume; J Diagnostic Medical Sonography; 1:205-217, 1985 (Kenneth Gottesfeld Award for published research, 1986: Journal of Diagnostic Medical Sonography; 1:205-217; 2:182). (Cited by: Goldberg BB, Kurtz AB; ATLAS OF ULTRASOUND MEASUREMENTS; Year Book Medical Publishers; p. 278, 1990)

Published the first documented sonogram of the female urethra: Hennigan W, DuBose TJ; Sonography of the Normal Female Urethra; Amer J of Roentgenology; 145:839-841, 1985, October. (cited by Gonzalez EL, Cosgrove DO, Joseph AE, Murch C, Naik K; The Appearances on Ultrasound of the Female Urethral Sphincter; British J of Radiology; 61:687-690, 1988, August).

First proposed and presented the use of fetal age range analysis (ARA) for the study of multiple fetal parameter's size and proportions: DuBose TJ, Poole E, Butschek C, Porter L, Dickey D & Hill L; Range of Multiple Fetal Parameters; J Ultrasound in Medicine; 7:S205-206, 1988, October.

Published the first sonogram of the female uterine arcuate vessels and measurement of the vessels' diameter changes throughout menses: DuBose TJ, Hill LW, Hennigan HW Jr., et al; Sonography of Arcuate Uterine Blood Vessels; J Ultrasound in Medicine; 4:229-233, 1985, May.

Published the first graph of the embryofetal heart rate using M-mode and performed the first linear regression to predict gestational age from the EHR: DuBose TJ, Cunyus JA, Johnson LF; Embryonic Heart Rate and Age; J of Diagnostic Medical Sonography; 6:151-157, 1990, May/June. see: <http://www.obgyn.net/us/cotm/0001/ehr2000B.htm>

b. Development of a nationally accepted educational aid and/or accessory:

Initiated the Ultrasound section of OBGYN.net and am serving as the first Chair of the Editorial Advisory Board (1997-2010), this included initiating a peer-review and guidance of the development process. This is the largest WWWeb site for Women's Health in the world. (See: <http://www.obgyn.net/us/us.asp> and <http://www.obgyn.net/us/panel/panel.htm>)

Conceived and initiated the History of Ultrasound Web site on OBGYN.net in collaboration with the SDMS, and coined the term "Polybiography" to describe the unique use of the Internet for historical purposes. (See: http://www.obgyn.net/us/us.asp?page=/us/news_articles/ultrasound_history/asp-history-toc and <http://mcel.pacificu.edu/JAHC/JAHCIV1/ARTICLES/DuBose/dubose.htm>)

C. Development of concepts or inventions contributing to the field of sonography:

Designed, programmed, and marketed the first PC software for fetal size/age analysis: DuBose TJ: Software and Manual;; BASIC BABY II - Obstetrical Software and Users Manual; Mind's Eye Images; Manual, 1986-2000. (See: <http://www.prismnet.com/~dubose/bbii.html>)

d. Other contributions that are of value to colleagues and the profession.

Served on the SDMS Board and chaired the Advanced Practice Sonographer Task Force (APS). As a part of the APS development I realized that the US Department of Labor's Occupation Outlook Handbook (OOH) defined Sonography as a sub-set of Radiologic Technology; and I established communications with the OOH editorial staff which will result in the final separation of Sonography from Radiologic Technology in the next edition of the OOH. Chaired the first SDMS Information Technologies Committee.

Initiated and served as the Program Director for two accredited (CAAHEP/JRC-DMS) programs: Austin Community College DMS Program, 1989-1994; and University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences DMS Program, 1996-Current.

Initial Project Manager for the SDMS Sonography Research Institute (SDMS SRI), 2011-Current. See: <http://www.sdmsfoundation.org/sri.aspx>
